

PUBLISHING IN THE CHRONIC DISEASES NETWORK QUARTERLY PUBLICATION "THE CHRONICLE"

"The Chronicle" publication aims to present information about local / NT based programs, evidence, agency updates, recent research findings and useful resources in the field of Chronic Diseases.

It is a means of promoting communication between the CDN members and provides an opportunity for people to present their work in a non-academic publication.

All articles are peer reviewed by the Editorial Committee and the publication also is perused by the NTG - DHF Media section (given the publication is funded by the NTG)
It is not normal practice for articles expressing authors personal views on a topic to be included.

"The Chronicle" criteria are:

- Articles should address the edition's theme
- Articles should be kept to 500 words
- All sources of information must be acknowledged, with correct references included.
- Photos should be sent separately in jpg format. Please do not put them into a word document and include a caption with photos.
- Articles of interest that do not directly address the theme of the edition will be considered but not given priority
- Not all articles will be able to be accepted due to theme and space limitations
- Prior to publishing all articles go to the editorial committee for editing and peer review
- the publication also is perused by the Northern Territory Government- Department of Health and Families Media section, prior to publishing (given the production of the publication is funded by the NTG)

Prior to publishing all articles go to the editorial committee for editing and review
